ACADEMIC AUDIT

The Academic Audit, like more traditional program reviews, is a peer review process including a self-study and by peers from outside the institution. Unlike the traditional approach to program evaluation, this process emphasizes self-reflection and self-improvement rather than compliance with predetermined standards. The purpose of an academic audit is to encourage departments or programs to evaluate their “education quality processes” – the key faculty activities required to produce, assure, and regularly improve the quality of teaching and learning. An audit asks how faculty approach educational decision making and how they organize their work, using the resources available to them and working collegially to provide a quality education in the best interests of the discipline and student learning.

Academic Audit is a best practice to be continued in any organization for better results. By conducting academic audit, the strength and weakness of the department can be assessed. The quantification of the academic performance helps us to compare the academic performance of departments and members of faculty. This practice develops a healthy competition among the members of faculty of each department and also among the departments.
